THEATRE SKILLS: SET DESIGN

WITH

Anna Orton, Seamus Killick &
Amie Burns Walker

WHAT?

When a play comes to life on stage, someone has to decide what it looks like; the set, the costumes, the colours and textures. All of it is designed, often long before the first rehearsal. In this workshop, you will get to be that person.

Working alongside professional set designer Anna Orton and prop maker Seamus Killick over two days, we will look at how theatre designers think and work.

Then, you will use your own production of Love in Every Light as a starting point to dream up ideas, making collages and eventually 3D models that explore how your world on stage could look, feel and say. Your finished work will be displayed in the venue windows ahead of the show, so audiences can see your vision before they even take their seats. No experience needed, just curiosity and a willingness to make a mess!
